CHICAGO PUBLIC LIBRARY

OUR MISSION

We welcome and support all people in their enjoyment of reading and pursuit of lifelong learning. Working together, we strive to provide equal access to information, ideas and knowledge through books, programs and other resources. We believe in the freedom to read, to learn, to discover.

FREEDOM TO READ

With challenged and banned books on the rise, our mission became more relevant than ever in 2022. It's why the Chicago Tribune celebrated library workers as Chicagoans of the Year. It's also why CPL has invested in our Book Sanctuary initiative, as well as programming that fosters this freedom.

OUR VISION

A city where people are equipped, engaged and inspired to learn and explore, and rely on Chicago Public Library as a trusted source of information, enrichment and opportunity.

2020-2024 STRATEGIC PLAN

Chicago Public Library is living and breathing its Strategic Plan, which established critical priorities for our next chapter, continuing to engage staff and other stakeholders to get further insights, hone language and build enthusiasm about the library's future. The final strategy articulates a clear direction and a shared vision built upon Chicago Public Library's commitment to service and excellence, including its six objectives:

1. PROVIDE FREE AND OPEN ACCESS TO INFORMATION AND EXPERIENCES THAT REFLECT AND ENGAGE CHICAGO'S DIVERSE NEIGHBORHOODS AND PEOPLE EQUITABLY AND INCLUSIVELY.
2. DEVELOP COLLECTIONS, DESIGN PROGRAMS AND ENABLE STAFF TO ENCOURAGE EXPLORATION AND NURTURE LEARNING.
3. CREATE RESPECTFUL, SAFE AND WELCOMING SPACES THAT INVITE PERSONAL GROWTH AND CREATE STRONGER, MORE CONNECTED COMMUNITIES.
4. SHARE PRIDE AND PURPOSE TO IMPROVE THE LIVES OF CHICAGOANS AND STRENGTHEN COMMUNITIES.
5. VALUE CREATIVITY AND RESOURCEFULNESS IN SERVING PATRONS EFFECTIVELY AND RESPONSIVELY.
6. BROADEN THE PERCEPTION OF WHAT A LIBRARY CAN BE.

NEIGHBORHOODS

Henry Eduard Legler, the library's leader in the early 20th century, created the first comprehensive branch library system in the nation. With 81 locations in 77 distinct neighborhoods, Legler's vision to "build branches within walking distance of every Chicagoan's home" is realized today.

DEAR FRIENDS,

We are honored to lead Chicago Public Library, an institution with a remarkable 150-year legacy. At CPL, we advocate for the growth of all Chicagoans by providing opportunities to improve lives through resources and learning. We lead through connections, empowerment, inspiration and imagination.

During a time when diverse voices are under attack, we're reminded why public libraries are our most democratic institutions, and why our mission is more important than ever. The American Library Association reported more than 729 attempted bans of 1,597 individual books in 2021 alone. Books celebrating voices that reflect the diversity of our own city, especially BIPOC and LGBTQ+ voices, have been targeted for removal from library collections all around the country. In Chicago, our diversity makes us great. That's why over the past year, CPL has doubled down on our mission around our freedom to read.

As you'll see in the following pages, CPL is proud to be part of a city of exceptional partnership and civic pride. We are not only a city that works—that gets things done—but also a city that works together. CPL contributes to this spirit through our powerful network of library locations throughout the city.

As we approach our 150-year anniversary, we celebrate the contributions that the people of CPL make to Chicago to enrich the lives of every resident, especially our youngest. Generated by decades of civic investment, today, Chicago Public Library thrives as a world-class institution with extensive resources and an incredibly diverse collection. Powered by our committed library system, supported by a steadfast city agenda of equity and amplified by a civically engaged public—we can make remarkable things happen.

We invite you to join us in this year's celebration of our city's history and our commitment to re-imagine what a library can be.

CONNECTING OUR COMMUNITIES

Chicago Public Library provides free and equitable access to ideas and knowledge, books, materials, inspiring spaces and technology—things Chicagoans need and deserve everyday—seven days a week. The Library is uniquely positioned to create connections throughout our city, playing an essential role in providing free programming and services, especially to our most vulnerable communities.

FINE FREE

Chicago became the largest city library system in the country to go fine free. This was part of an ongoing effort by the Mayor's Office and CPL to remove barriers to City services, especially for youth and low-income communities. At the time, one in four children with library cards had a blocked library account, representing over 100,000 children who could not check out resources from their library. The elimination of fines has had transformational results, with circulation increasing 25% after going fine free.

COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

CPL and the Chicago Public Library Foundation launched a new funding initiative called the Community Connections Fund, which will help branches respond more quickly to the needs and interests of their unique neighborhoods. Projects include purchasing bibliobikes for creative outreach, children's kinesthetic games with different learning modalities and career clothing to support job-seekers with interview attire. These are all resources that are driven by community needs, interests and participation.

7 DAY ACCESS

The full effect of restoring Sunday Library hours took effect in 2022. With the support of the Mayor's Office, this delivers on the City and CPL's commitment to remove barriers and provide all Chicagoans access to critical library resources—safe and welcoming spaces, student resources, computers, Wi-Fi and academic resources—7 days a week. In fact, restoring Sunday hours led to a 35% increase in visitation.

CULTURE IN MY NEIGHBORHOOD

Culture in My Neighborhood, in partnership with Chicago Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events, was fully launched at Chicago Public Library in September of 2022. CPL hosted 167 public activities at 73 library locations, celebrating the diversity that makes Chicago a destination for people of all backgrounds through events, programs, workshops and more.

REIMAGINING WHAT A LIBRARY CAN BE

Chicago Public Library branches are places of outstanding architecture and design, offering access to mental health and support services, and serving as sources for inspiration while building equity and representation throughout our city.

NEIGHBORHOOD INVESTMENTS

As an international library leader, CPL continuously reimagines what a library can be. We are at the forefront—partnering with architecture firms to design award-winning community-centered spaces and services that meaningfully impact Chicagoans across the city. This investment in spaces and good design matters. In fact, studies have shown that library capital spending results in substantial increases in use, with over 20% increases in visitation, borrowing and attendance at children’s programming.

CPL is focusing these investments in neighborhoods that need them most. We have brought a regional library (Legler) back to the West Side and built a new Altgeld Branch on the South Side. Our branches deliver “whole family” support services, including four co-locations with the Chicago Housing Authority.

CPL continues to build on these successful revitalization efforts. This year, we are undertaking a capital planning strategy to create an aspirational framework for improvements, because our successes have shown that when the city and the community work together, we can reimagine the role of Chicago’s institutions to spur neighborhood revitalization.

COMMUNITY WELLNESS

CPL plays a critical role providing health and wellness services, especially for our most vulnerable populations, including those struggling with housing, addiction and mental health. As part of the Mayor's Office whole government approach to safety, Chicago Public Library has established partnerships with the Community Safety Coordination Center, social workers, Greater Chicago Food Depository, the Department of Family and Support Services, as well as the Department of Public Health.

As a result of these partnerships, we've:

- Added teen programming staff to libraries in the 15 most challenged safety beats to provide outreach and programming for youth in our neighborhoods.
- Established a Mental Health Clinical Liaison Program to offer social services to the public through the CPL Cares initiative.
- Delivered over 30,000 summer meals through dozens of libraries.
- Provided summer jobs through One Summer Chicago.
- Launched Narcan distribution in all of our libraries to save the lives of those impacted by the opioid crisis and reduce the stigma surrounding addiction. Over 2,400 kits of this lifesaving overdose reversal medication have been distributed through this program.

COLLECTION INVESTMENT

What can children become if they see diverse representation of themselves and their city reflected in their libraries? CPL asked itself that question and invested $2,000,000 to refresh and update the children's collections in 20 South and West Side library locations.

The increased budget has also provided the opportunity to purchase more copies of high-demand material, reducing the wait time for popular items by a full week. With Chicagoans submitting over half a million requests, this reduced wait time has real significance. The proposed 2023 budget has an additional $500,000 collection increase to continue bringing CPL on par with library industry leaders. That's a total of $2.5 million to ensure diverse representation within CPL collections.

FIRST EQUITY OFFICE

Mayor Lori Lightfoot established the Mayor's Office of Equity and Racial Justice (OERJ) to advance institutional change that results in an equitable transformation of how the City does business. This includes service delivery, resource distribution, policy creation and decision-making. OERJ now does this by supporting City departments in normalizing concepts of racial equity; organizing staff to work together for transformational change; and operationalizing new practices, policies and procedures that result in more fair and just outcomes.

As a result, CPL established its first Equity Office in 2022 that will be conducting an Equity Assessment in 2023, informed by community engagement, to establish goals and identify access barriers needing to be addressed through an action plan.

“The Equity Office’s work moves beyond any single initiative, looking to the Library’s core work to consider what we do particularly well, how we can build on our strengths and what we can improve to be a more equitable library system.”

DESIREE ABU-ODEH, PHD
SENIOR EQUITY OFFICER

The success of Chicago Public Library delivering much needed services is dependent on communities seeing themselves represented in our spaces and programming so they feel empowered to participate. We create this connection through storytelling, programming and art.

ONE BOOK, ONE CHICAGO

An unprecedented rise in book banning is happening across the country. The American Library Association reported more than 729 attempted bans of 1,597 individual books in 2021 alone. Books celebrating BIPOC and LGBTQ+ voices have been targeted for removal from library collections all around the country.

To counteract this, CPL has been promoting books and authors facing censorship challenges. Maus by Art Spiegelman—one of the most frequently challenged books of all time—was the year's One Book, One Chicago selection. This brutally moving work of art, widely hailed as the greatest graphic novel ever written, recounts the experiences of the author's father during the Holocaust. Spiegelman appeared in person to a packed house on November 3 at the Harold Washington Library Center to discuss his career, his work and the importance of our freedom to read.

BOOK SANCTUARY

CPL partnered with the American Library Association and the Chicago Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events (DCASE) to increase access and programming around challenged materials. Our Book Sanctuary initiative designates our 81 library branches as book sanctuaries, calling on other libraries and the general public to stand to protect banned books through increased access to challenged literature. Chicago is the first city to declare itself a book sanctuary; the movement has been adopted by public library systems around the world, including Toronto Public Library in Canada and Broward County Library in Florida. This initiative has been recognized by Chicago Tribune, WBEZ, and Teen Vogue.

VOICES FOR JUSTICE

The Voices for Justice series engages authors, artists, thought leaders and other experts who spark conversation around the topic of social justice and represent the diversity of Chicago's communities. This program is in support of the City's Together We Heal initiative, launched by the Mayor's Office and the Office of Equity and Racial Justice, a campaign aimed at building racial healing across Chicago. The goals of the series are to empower all Chicagoans to engage in activities fostering connection, restoration and learning at this time of racial reckoning for both the city and the nation.

To date the program has seen over 80,000 views, with speakers including Justice Sonya Sotomayor, Candace Parker and Pulitzer Prize winning author Margo Jefferson. Click here to view recordings of past events.

ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE

This year, CPL partnered with the Department of Cultural Affairs and Special Events on our first Artist-in-Residence Program in Legler Regional Library. Alexandra Antoine's work acknowledges the influences of her Haitian culture and interest in portraiture, food, farming, and physical labor in traditional artistic practices of the African diaspora. During a two-year residency, she will develop public art projects and art programs to promote greater connectivity between the Library, its services, and the needs of the local community.

EMPOWERING THE NEXT GENERATION

Chicago Public Library serves our next generation by helping them find their passion through youth-focused activities and programs.

YOU MEDIA

You've heard of Chance the Rapper. You've heard of Noname. But did you know they are both alums of CPL's incredibly successful YOUmedia program, which began as a collaboration with the MacArthur Foundation and Chicago Public Library Foundation? The revolutionary youth program was incubated in Chicago and prototyped downtown at Harold Washington Library Center in 2009. It then expanded to libraries and museums all over the country.

YOUmedia is essentially a network of learning labs at CPL locations that provide Chicago youth with access to cutting edge technologies, along with space for collaboration, production, performance and exhibition. Teens engage in projects across a variety of core content areas, including graphic design, photography, video, music, 2D/3D design, STEM and hands-on making—both in person and online.

YOU MEDIA ALUM ON THE NATIONAL STAGE

Today, many of the YOUmedia generation are emerging in local and national arts scenes as chamber musicians, poets and artists. Noname, the nationally renowned rapper and Bronzeville native who wrote and performed slam poetry at YOUmedia, has launched her own Noname Book Club, which hosts book clubs at the CPL Woodson location. Noname has also established 12 national chapters in public libraries as "online and IRL" communities to lift up POC voices.

Chicago native Chance the Rapper, who still proudly claims the title of "Mr. YOUmedia," is another alum who embodies CPL's values of equitable learning. In 2017, he donated $1 million to Chicago Public Schools to help empower youth through arts education.

PROGRAMMING

CPL has many other powerful programs that boost academic achievement and student advancement, including our “Summer at CPL,” designed to help younger kids combat the summer slide by engaging them in reading and literacy activities. Our Teacher in the Library provides free tutoring, and our ChiTeen Lit Fest and the Chicago Teen Gamer’s Guild are other programs that have been developed with and by Chicago youth.

DIGITAL ACCESS + CYBERNAVIGATORS

As a member of the City's Digital Equity Council, CPL is playing a central role in providing digital access and skills that are essential for individuals to engage in the modern world. Today, every branch provides free public Wi-Fi and devices for all people of all ages. In fact, CPL is the largest free internet provider in the city. In partnership with the Foundation, CPL provides CyberNavigators who work one-on-one with Chicago populations of all ages to build skills that narrow the digital divide.

DEDICATED CHICAGOANS

CPL leads through its innovative, supportive and equity-driven staff. Many of these staffers were finalists of the Kathy Osterman Award, a program that honors Chicago metropolitan area public service employees for their superior performance and achievements.

JULIE KOSLOWSKY

Director of Teen Services

Julie started CPL as a summer intern and CyberNavigator. She grew into the role of Director of Teen Services where she received the Outstanding Innovator Kathy Osterman Award for her leadership on The 81 Club. She has also successfully opened 29 YOUmedia locations.

ERIC REYES

Equity Officer

Eric started at CPL as a YOUmedia mentor and elevated to Equity Officer. His work on the forthcoming Equity Assessment is informed by community engagement. The assessment will serve as the newly-established roadmap to guide CPL into a more equitable library system.

“Teens will keep you on your toes. I’m constantly learning from them and trying to see the world through their eyes. It’s broadened my understanding and kept me grounded in what’s really important.”

“CPL has a great reputation in the community and a regular practice of listening to patrons to inform our programs and offerings. Because of this, we’re uniquely positioned to serve as a leader for equity work in Chicago.”

GREGORY DIAZ

District 4 Chief

Greg started as a library page and rose to District Chief, where he inspires CPL staff through mentorship, onboarding and training. He supports new library staff as they join library teams and leads district-wide, as well as neighborhood, library services.

EBONY JONES

Executive Assistant

Ebony supports the work of the Library Board and Executive Team. She’s played a significant role in launching CPL’s strategy plan. She can be found behind-the-scenes coordinating many programs and initiatives, such as the Community Connections Fund and supporting 150th anniversary activities.

“I was lucky to have engaged managers, peers and friends who guided and challenged me to grow. I want our CPL team to have that same opportunity, and to pass on their skills and perspectives to those that will inherit the system we build together.”

“In order to create connections and make an impact, we need to embrace any challenge, whether that is through supporting colleagues, being solution-oriented, or willing to learn new skills.”

and planning for our future.

CELEBRATE 150 YEARS AT CPL

It is a rare moment in history when an organization is able to celebrate 150 years of providing learning, entertainment and opportunity to millions of people. We are thrilled to share that Chicago Public Library is spending all of 2023 commemorating this extraordinary milestone. The celebration, at its core, is a celebration of all of you—many of whom have been contributing to the library's success for years, even decades. See a few highlights below of the many ways we are celebrating CPL's 150th!

CHICAGO POET LAUREATE

CPL, in collaboration with DCASE and the Poetry Foundation, is hosting the first Chicago Poet Laureate program. The poet laureate is announced in April 2023 at Poetry Fest.

CPL IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD HISTORY EXHIBITS

Utilizing CPL's archives and special collections, CPL provided grants for up to ten historically significant branches to research, curate and produce a special exhibit at their location to celebrate the history and legacy of their branches within their communities.

LIBRARY LEGACY: VIVIAN HARSH

Chicago Public Library has long been at the forefront of lifting up the voices of those historically marginalized. In 1932, CPL opened the George Cleveland Hall Branch in a predominantly African American neighborhood. Its first Black branch director, Vivian G. Harsh, challenged CPL to be responsive to the range of racial, multicultural and socio-economic interests of its Bronzeville residents. Harsh and Charlemae Hill Rollins, the Hall Branch Children's Librarian, became national champions for acquiring and providing access to African American literature that was free of racial and ethnic distortion. As Martin Luther King Jr. said, "The time is always right to do what is right."

This legacy lives on in the Vivian G. Harsh Archives, now located in the special collections of the Woodson Regional Library, housing the largest African American collection of literature, historical papers and correspondence in the Midwest.

TOP 150 BOOK LIST

CPL reveals the top picks for 150 books throughout our history with a series of specially-curated lists for children, teens and adults.

SECRETS OF CPL VIDEO SERIES

CPL's video series shows "behind the scenes" secrets from the Library that highlight how our drivers move books, to the most interesting things in our archives.

CPL 150 EXHIBIT IN HWLC 9TH FLOOR GALLERY

Drawing from CPL's archival collections, the exhibit presents 150 years of CPL history and celebrates the Library's service to Chicago through its extensive branch system.

CHITEEN STORIES

CPL's Teen Services Department presents a year-long celebration of storytelling with video and audio storytelling challenges. Drawing upon YOUmedia equipment such as cameras, audio recordings, and more, teens are training in storytelling. There are prizes for top submissions to challenges throughout the year—the project culminates at the end of Summer Reading.

PERMANENT ACCESS TO CHICAGO'S NEWSPAPERS

CPL acquires perpetual and complete access to two prominent Chicago newspapers, the Chicago Tribune and the Chicago Sun-Times, allowing Chicagoans access to two of the city's historically largest newspapers.

LIBRARY LEGACY: HENRY LEGLER

CPL's active role in advancing equitable opportunity for the city has historic roots. Henry Eduard Legler, the library's leader in the early 20th century, championed an aggressive expansion of library services with a "Library Plan for the Whole City." He created the first comprehensive branch library system in the nation, with the aim to bring "library service within the walking distance of home for every person in Chicago who can read or wants to use books."

CPL continues to build on Legler's walkable access model. Today, our far-reaching infrastructure gives every ward, neighborhood, business, worker, senior and family close access to critical resources for building their lives, exploring their potential and cultivating vital social connections.

CPL ON WINTRUST'S MURAL BUILDING

Local artist Nick Goettling designs the 150th Anniversary mural that is displayed on the Wintrust building from mid-May through the end of June. The unveiling includes the community, civic leaders and key Chicago Public Library Foundation donors.

AUTHORS IN THE LIBRARY SERIES

With support of the Chicago Public Library Foundation, CPL is using the popular mainstage author series to host and showcase some of the most impactful authors of today.

CITYWIDE BIRTHDAY PARTY

CPL hosts a citywide birthday party at all 81 neighborhood locations. Each location will receive a cake, giveaways and the opportunity to host a performer such as a musician, band, storyteller and puppeteer. Every Chicagoan will be able to walk to the library in their neighborhood to take part in this celebration.

LIBRARY LEGACY: QUEEN VICTORIA

The library was born from the ashes of the Great Chicago Fire of 1871. Out of sympathy, distinguished British authors and Queen Victoria gathered 8,000 books from throughout Great Britain to donate them to Chicago. The gesture demonstrated a belief in the central role of books and learning to the civic community and subsequently for rebuilding our city. Given Chicago had few unscathed standing buildings, our first free library and reading room was housed in an abandoned water tank— also inaugurating CPL's legacy of innovation and resourcefulness. Opening just over a year after the fire—exactly 150 years ago—the library attracted so many Chicagoans that its doors remained open 13 hours a day, seven days a week.

CHICAGO PUBLIC LIBRARY FOUNDATION

Powering Our Library Since 1986

As the Library's exclusive fundraising partner, the Chicago Public Library Foundation has worked with thousands of individuals, foundations and businesses to power above and beyond Library programming for nearly 40 years. Together, donors at every level have invested more than $100 million to launch pioneering new programs and sustain community-responsive initiatives for Chicagoans of all ages, and in every neighborhood.

In 2022, our donor-powered community helped:

- Close the Academic Opportunity Gap with programs like Summer @ CPL; 1:1 Teacher in the Library homework help; and year-round hands-on learning activities for teens, tweens and the very youngest learners.
- Activate Creativity and Connection through workshops led by expert local makers and artists; safe and supportive YOUmedia teen learning labs; and intergenerational movie nights at Community Cinema screenings citywide.
- Bridge the Digital Divide with initiatives such as individualized technology tutoring through CyberNavigators and 24/7 online learning supports like LinkedIn Learning, Chicago DigitalLearn and Cell-Ed.
- Celebrate the 22nd Library Foundation Awards, which raises crucial support and awareness for our Library's work. In October 2022, we raised more than $1.1 million in vital funding for Library programs. To enjoy the event broadcast and hear more from our honorees—playwright Tony Kushner, chef Rick Bayless and Chicago historian Shermann "Dilla" Thomas—and other special guests, tune in here.
